WASHINGTON, NOV. 8, 1884. "By direction of the president the re-tirement from active service this day by operation of law of Major General Oliver O. Howard under the provisions of the act of June 30, 1882, is announced."

Gen. Howard entered the military academy in 1850, and was graduated therefrom among the honorable men of his class in 1851. He was thereupon appointed in the ordnance department, and after attaining the grade of first lieutement resigned his position in the army in June, 2861, upon the outbreak of the late war, to accept a commission as colonel of the Third Maine volun-

He was promoted to be general of vol-unteers in September, 1881, and major general of volunteers in 1862. He served in the field continuously during the war and was engaged in 35 combats and ac-tions and many skirmishes. At Fair Oaks, Va., he lost his right arm. For distinguished bravery in this action he has received a medal of honor. The thanks of congress were tendered to him for skill and heroic valor at Gettysburg. He became a corps commander in 1863, and was assigned to the command of the army of the Tennessee in 1864. In the campaign of 1864 he was again wounded. He was appointed from the Volunteers a brigadier general in the permanent establishment in 1864 and was promoted to be major general in He received the brevet of major general for gallant and meritorious serice in the battle of Ezra Church and during the campaign against Atlanta,

While commander of the department person in 1877 and in a campaign against the Nez Perces Indian of the Columbia he led the troops lu the Nez Perces Indians, and in 1878 against the Bannocks and Piutes. He was later superintendent of the United States military academy at West Point, and afterwards in turn commander of the department of the Platte of the division of the Pacific and of the division of the Atlantic. He retires from active service as the commander of the department of the east.

THE AMENDMENT.
